PLANT SANITATION

The FDA has identified the need for a well organized and properly implemented sanitation program. It emphasizes the need for a clean plant environment extending from receiving areas to packaging rooms, and from floor to ceiling.

A critical element in this program is the proper selection, use and care of brushes. Brushes should be restricted to their particular zone of use. Brushes should be maintained in good condition, properly stored when not in use and sanitized between uses.

Sparta's Color-Coded Brush Program is the key to keeping brushes in the areas they are used, doing the jobs they are meant to do.

See page 182-183 for more details on our Plant Sanitation Guide
